Three Weeks of Dead GMV Max Ads, Fixed in One Reset. +112% the Next Week.

A food and beverage brand lost its second-biggest growth lever for over three weeks. TikTok support never delivered a fix. A Business Center subaccount disconnect and reconnect brought it back, and GMV jumped 112% week over week.

01 Setup

A food and beverage brand on TikTok Shop where GMV Max is a primary paid growth lever. In the team's words, access to ads is the second-biggest lever for overall growth outside of having great affiliates. When that lever stops working, growth stalls.

02 Problem

For more than three weeks, the brand's GMV Max campaigns were not running properly because of a subaccount connection issue. The team contacted TikTok support repeatedly and never got an actionable fix. Every day the campaigns stayed broken was ad-driven GMV the account was not earning. Three-plus weeks of a dead primary lever is not a glitch, it is a material revenue drag.

Operator note — When platform support stalls, the cost is not the ticket. It is the compounding revenue you lose every day the lever stays broken.

03 The GMV Max Reconnect Fix

The GMV Max Reconnect Fix is a diagnostic step, not a campaign strategy: when GMV Max stops delivering and TikTok support cannot resolve it, go into Business Center, disconnect the subaccount, and reconnect it. It forces the platform to rebuild the connection that broke. It is the kind of fix support rarely volunteers, and it turned three weeks of dead air into live campaigns the same day.

04 The moves

Exhaust support first

Reached out to TikTok to resolve the issue but never received any actionable fixes. The official channel was a dead end for over three weeks.

Reset the connection

Went into Business Center, disconnected the subaccount, then reconnected it. That manual reset rebuilt the broken link and brought GMV Max back online.

05 Result

After the subaccount reconnect, GMV Max campaigns went live again and immediately drove a 112% week-over-week GMV increase. The team estimates an extra $2,000 in GMV for the month from the recovery, with a $10,000 June target now back in reach. The exact before and after weekly dollar totals were not reported, so the percentage is the honest headline here, not an invented bar chart.

ESTIMATED GMV RECOVERED

The dollar impact is modest on its own. The point is the speed and the repeatability. A lever that support could not fix in three weeks came back in a single reset, and the account went straight back to growing. That is the difference between waiting on a platform and operating around it.

If GMV Max stops working and TikTok support is unresponsive, do not just keep waiting on the ticket. Try the Business Center subaccount disconnect and reconnect before you escalate further. It is a repeatable diagnostic step that costs minutes, and it can recover weeks of dead campaigns. The broader lesson: know the manual fixes the platform will not hand you, because the cost of downtime is paid in lost GMV every single day.
